Purified Water Replenishment will provide our region with a safe and drought-resilient water supply. EMWD will advance treat recycled water before using it to replenish our local groundwater basins, where it will go through the natural purification process. That water will one day be pumped out through a proven advanced treatment process that will then be used to replenish our local groundwater basins. Once that water is pumped out from the aquifer, it will be cleaned one final times before being delivered as safe and reliable drinking water. Learn more at emwd.org/OpenHouse.
